A PUBLICITY COMMUNIQUE FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Former Eagles player tackles the quest for affordable housing in Burlington County

Cinnaminson, NJ--

Former Eagles offensive tackle and NJ Congressional candidate Jon Runyan is spending the day building hope in Burlington County with Habitat for Humanity.

Runyan will work alongside construction staff and volunteers to help create another decent, affordable home in our community on Wednesday, May 26th.

"Habitat for Humanity is an invaluable resource to the people of South Jersey. In its 34 years of existence, Habitat has provided a brighter future for families around the world," said Runyan. "I look forward to helping Habitat give a Burlington County family hope that they too can live the American dream."

In addition to Runyan's support of Habitat for Humanity, he has been a longtime advocate for charitable organizations such as the American Red Cross, the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation and the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation, just to name a few.

Runyan's efforts with Habitat for Humanity will help the organization complete their 37th affordable home in Burlington County.

For more information on how you can help make the dream of homeownership a reality for another Burlington County family, please visit www.habitatbcnj.org or call (856) 303-8080.
